Samah Afifi on Building High-Performance Startups Without Sacrificing People

As early-stage startups scale, many encounter friction not because of technology, but because of misalignment across teams, priorities, and leadership.

> “We only win if we all win”.

Product and leadership advisor Samah Afifi works with early-stage and funded startups to address these challenges by bringing clarity across product development, team structure, and execution.

About Samah Afifi

Samah Afifi is a product and leadership advisor working with early-stage and funded startups to bring clarity across product strategy, leadership alignment, and team performance. Her approach blends technical rigor with human-centered leadership to help organizations scale with intention and resilience.